GENERAL BASE BALL NEWS OF THE DAY

Once more the Pittsburg ball club was nearly knocked out of sight yesterday by the Philadelphia club. Galvin was simply pulverized. The Senators and the Clevelands played a 10-inning tie game. Boston continues its winning streak.

(SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.) PHILADELPHIA, July 18.-The sur smiled softly on Philadelphia Park this afternoon. Two thousand three hundred enthusiastic men and women were assembled. It was the reappearance of the Pitts burg club, with the mighty trie, Dunlap, White and Rowe, which attracted most attention. The sight of long Jim White sort of brushed away the cobwebs of memory and restored pleasant scenes of days gone by. The aged enthusiast walked into the grounds, burnished his eyeglasses, mopped his heated brow and seated himself comfortably preparatory to taking a good look at the old yet on third, who used to catch Al Pratt while both were members of the Forest City Club, back in the '60s. There was Dunlap, the well-known real estate king of Philadelphia, and Jack Rowe, principal owner of the Buffalo club, and as clever shortstop as ever walked across a green dia-

THE HUSTLING MANAGER of this famous trio did not forget his fellowtownsmen, for he brought another aged and well-known figure with him, a man who pitched ball long before the late lamented Greeley advised the then young men to settle down in Western States and Territories. There are four well-known baseball figures, the sight of whom is enough to draw the average base ball crank from a sick bed. The men who represent the mighty League from the extreme western end of the State have won not a game on their present Eastern trip, but they strode on the local ball field to-day with measured tread, which was meant to denote that the Philadelphias would not be in the sport on the coming occasion. During preliminary practice Galvin and Miller limbered their arms, and the hand sent cold chills down the backs of the spectators. But great men are often tiable to make mistakes. The "not-in-it" part of the afternoon's proceedings was on the other foot

VERY MUCH "IN IT." So much so that only seven of the visitor reached first base during the entire game, and only two of them enabled to dig their beels second bag. Casey was very much "in Three of the opposing batsmen hit him safely, Bowe for two singles, and Dunlap and Smith for one each. There was but one error made by the local men, and that Hallman permitted to creep into the game in the ninth inning after we men had been retired.

In the first five innings the Phillies hit the ball for 14 hits, and the following four innings they cracked it out for seven more, making a total of 21 hits. Beyond the two line catches fielding part of the contest was not above the standard, which is accounted by the fact that when the ball was not hit safe it invariably landed into some fielder's hands. The feature landed into some fielder's hands. The feature of the game, of course, was the hitting, a habit contracted by every man on the local team except Farrar. Thompson appeared five times at bat, and he succeeded in placing the ball safe for two singles, a double and a home run. Mulvey came next with three singles and a

STARTED THE FUN.

The Phillies, as usual, took their first turn at the bat. Wood bunted the ball in front of the plate, and before Galvin could recover from his surprise the big left fielder was sitting on first base. Hallman drove a fly to Hanlon, and first base. Hallman drove a fly to Hanlon, and Myers sent Wood to second on a single. Thompson hit safely to center and Wood scored. Clements hit for a base, and so did Mulvey, both hits sending Myers and Thompson over the plate. In the third Myers led off with a single, and Thompson chased him around the bases on a ball which dropped somewhere on the outside of the right field brick wall. At the beginning of the fifth inning the score stood 5 to 0 in favor of Philadelphia. Hallman began the inning by driving the ball into center for a base. Then Myers, Thompson and Glements knocked out singles with startling rapidity. Mulvey followed Clements with a triple, and Fogarty was sent to first on balls. Just

TO RELIEVE THE MONOTONY of the batting streak, Farrar drove a liner at Rowe, and before Mulvey could get back to third White had the ball, Casey and Wood made singles, the former being caught at third made singles, the former being caught at third by Haulon's clever throw to White. When the smoke cleared away the Phillies had scored five runs, four of them being earned. In the seventh Mulvey and Fogarty reached first on singles and Casey surprised everybody, including himself, by driving both men home on a two-bagger into center which drove the score-board boy from his shady retreat. In the eighth two more were made on a single by Mulvey and doubles by Hallman and Thompson. In the ninth Rowe fumbled Casey's easy grounder, Wood hit for a base, and while Rowe was attempting to put him out on Hallman's grounder Casey scored. The agony in detail:

COULDN'T GET WARRANTS

the Arrest of the Fighters. NEW YORK, July 18.—Detective Norris, of Mississippi, was at police headquarters to-night and stated that he had been refused warrants at the Tombs Police Court for the arrest of Mitchell and Donovan, and had sent a telegram to that effect to Governor Lowry. In reply he received the following dispatch:

You need not arrest and detain parties as fugitives from this State as you suggested. We will await the investigation of the grand jury. Ascertain facts as instructed and report one. Further instructions mailed you yesterday.

ROBERT LOWEY, Governor.

Detective Norris said he had been in the city two days, acting under instructions from the Governor. His original intention was to arrest Mitchell, Donoyan and others who took any part in the fight as fugitives from Mississippl. The refusal of Judge Hogan to issue warrants changed the programme, and Norris now awaits the malled instructions of the Governor. Since his arrival here, Norris said he has been engaged in getting the names, addresses and all possible information about the participants in the fight, from the principals down. He denied the truth of the story that he was to get $250 for taking the Kiirain party safely through Mississippi to New Orleans. "It is a lie," he said. The detective also added that he would be sorry to see Muldoon get into any trouble. The wrestier did him a favor some years ago and he remembers it.

Flemon Remanded to the Custody of the Sheriff Atter All.

HE WILL APPEAL THE BIG CASE, But Only Has To-Day and To-Morrow for His Allocatur.

JUDGE EWING'S OPINION GIVEN IN FULL A deep sigh of disappointment broke forth from the large assembly of colored people assembled in the lobby of Court of Common Pleas No. 1 yesterday, when Judge Ewing rendered his decision in the Flemon case, ordering the man into the custody of the Sheriff and sending him, perhaps, to South Carolina. The courtroom was even fuller than on the previous day, and, about 1:30 o'clock, the corridors were thronged with a feverish, anxious crowd. Presently C. F. McKenna, Esq., appeared, his face bearing the accustomed air of good humor. He was followed by a number of attorneys. Clarence Burleigh, accompanied by Roger O'Mara and Detective Fitzgerald, stepped airily into the room. Then came the Rev. E. F. Flemon him-self. His face bore the same air of cool, even calm, indifference. He sat down at the lawvers' table the

IMPERSONATION OF NONCHALANCE and sublime content. But when His Honor, Judge Ewing, unfolded his paper and announced that he was ready to render his decision, the young man became visibly affected. He leaned forward and held one of his hands behind his ear in order to catch every utterance the Judge might make, and any one watching him closely might have judged the contents of His Honor's paper from the prisoner's face. At the beginning the intonation of Judge Ewing's voice, and indeed the manner in which he read each sentence, seemed to give the impression that the decision would be in favor of Flemon. Even Mr. McKenna seemed to think so when he looked across the reporters' table and winked with his left eye. But this impression was doomed to disappointment when the Judge said that he could not find any law which required him to do anything else but consider the fact of identification on the part of the Sheriff from South Carolina, and on that secount he must give the prisoner over into the lands of the authorities. Then it was the colored contingent in the lobby sighed, but their countenances showed no other

Mr. Flemon was again the picture of stoical indifference, and if he for a moment contemplated his future in South Carolina, the man knows well how to hide inward emotions. The following is the Judge's

in full:

On July 13, 1889, the Governor of this Commonwealth issued his warrant to the Sheriff of Allegheny county, directing him to arrest John Yeldell, and deliver him to the authorities of South Carolina, in said warrant named, to be taken to Edgefield county. South Carolina, as a fugitive from justice, to answer to a charge of murder, for which he stands indicted. The warrant is in its usual form, on its face showing that it was regularly issued on a requisition of the Governor of South Carolina, accompanied by a certified copy of the indictment, and claiming John Yeldell, as a fugitive from justice. We have here neither a copy of the indictment nor anything in the papers to show when the alleged murder was committed, nor by whom. Under the provisions of the act of Assembly relative to fugitives from justice, May 24, 1878, P. L. 187. the provisions of the act of Assembly relative to fugitives from justice, May 24, 1878, P. L. 187, the Sheriff arrested the prisoner and brought him into court, when he was informed of his rights and the nature of the process under which he was arrested and the charge made against him; whereupon he filed a petition for a writ of habaes corpus, alleging that he was not John Yeldell, but E. F. Flemon; that he was not a fugitive from justice, not the person called for, and that the warrant of arrest was insufficient, and that he was illegally detained. A writ was issued, the prisoner brought into court, a hearing had and testimony heard on the part of the respondent, confined by his counsel to the question of identify, except other matters that were incidentally brought out on examination.

The act of Assembly referred to provides that the investigation and hearing under said writ shall be limited to the question of identification. The act is a singular one, in this respect: That part of it which requires the officer before delivering the prisoner arrested to the Smith, accompanied by the freedom of the city.

The next proposition was to turnish all present with books for collection purposes, but the idea was violently assailed and finally put into its little bed, one man remarking that the experience of annoyance at the hands of collectors for Johnstown relief ought to be conclusive against any such proposition. emanding his rendition, to take his prisoner efore the court to have him informed of the auses of his arrest and of his rights, was an lief ought to be conclusive against any such proposition.

A revised report from the treasurer at 10:30 o'clock showed $74.09 actual ready John on hand, and several rousing speeches were being made by Mr. Turfly, stimulating people to visit the captain's office and a considerable number were making sundry excursions that way when the reporters left. It had been emphatically announced by Mr. Turfly in his exhortations that $100 must be raised or the boiler burst in the effort, and the enthusiasm generated seemed likely to bring about the desired result.

It was decided that $100 should be put into Mr. McKenna's hands before high noon to-day, and it was announced that the collecting committee should go on collectaddition to the former rights of the prisoner, and had the act provided for a hearing under that provision alone, the limitation of the inand had the act provided for a hearing under that provision alone, the limitation of the investigation to the question of identification might have been constitutional. But it makes no provision for such a hearing, but goes on to provide that he may have a writ of habeas corpus. This was no new right of privilege; it was an indefeasible right which he had under the Constitution independent of an act of Assembly, and, having exercised this right, he is before us with a full right to have us pass upon the legality of the arrest and holding, to the same extent and in the same manner as though the act of 1878 had no existence.

The requisition of the Governor of South Carolina, and the certified copy of the indictment on which the warrant of arrest for rendition was granted, is not before us, but we are bound to presume, in absence of evidence to the contrary, that they are, as stated, in the warrant of the Governor of Pennsylvania. But the warrant of the Governor of Pennsylvania is not conclusive evidence that the prisoner is a fugitive from justice (Mohr's case, 2 Alabama, L. Journal, 557; Spear on law of Rendition, pp. 488-590), but is prima facie evidence of the fact, liable to be disproved by the prisoner. (Same authorities and Robertson Reilly, 116 U. S., 80)

The prisoner offered no evidence, his counsel claiming his discharge on the insufficiency of the case made on the papers, and claiming that, by the testimony on the part of the State of South Carolina, it is shown that the prisoner was not, so far as known or heard of, in South Carolina, at its shown that the prisoner was not, so far as known or heard of, in South Carolina, after October, 1864; whereas, by the letter of air, Lyon, Deputy Sheriff, on which the prisoner was first arrested by the police authorities, and which was the only authority for his airrest and holding him for some ten days until a requisition could be made, it appears that the murder with which he is charged was

Mr. McKenna stated afterward that Mr. Marshall would immediately set about hunting for a Supreme Judge, and be will probably leave for Philadelphia to-day. After His Honor ordered the court to be cleared, the colored people walked down stairs and began a discussion of the decision in front of the Court House. Most of them said the Judge had done everything he could do for Flemon; but, as the law dictated to turn the prisoner over to the South Carolina agents, he had to do so.

An effort was made to see Flemon in jail, but he refused to be interviewed.

THE BALLOON BREAKS FREE AND PLIES. Here of Many Ascensions and Jum Probably Drowned.

Notwithstanding the Rock Point pichic, the sympathizers with Mr. Flemon succeeded in packing the regular assembly room of the Franklin street school hall last night, but it was about 9 o'clock before they got down to business. Mr. Isaac Washington was made Chairman and Mr. Daniel Washington A thrilling story is told by Pilot Phelan ington Secretary. The Secretary stated that the object of the meeting was not to indignate, but to indorse all that had been done in Flemon's behalf, and raise sufficient money to take the case to the Supreme Court. Said he: "We must have $100." The Chair added: "We must proceed with continuous and the suprementation of the supr f how Campbell's missing airship was seen struggling with the waves until at last balloon and car part company, the former o float away, the latter to sink. ceed with caution now," and that business and not oratory was needed.

Despite this admonition, however, some people persisted in talking more than the Chair legalized, and there were some sharp tills at times. NEW YORK, July 18 .- Pilot Phelan, of the pilot boat Caprice, who brought the bark Belt into port, reports that on July 10, in latitude 39° 30' longitude 71° 40', he sighted from the masthead at a long distance Mr. Boy was willing to acknowledge that Judge Ewing had exercised great care and wanted to know how much money would be away a balloon dragging its car along the surface of the water. He gave chase to it, but at sundown, when about three-fourths of a mile from it, it collapsed and disap-

Mr. Foster got the floor and proceeded to discuss the constitutionality of the law of 1878, on the basis laid down by Judge Ewing. He also sanalyzed to some extent the doctrine of States rights and decided that the reasoning that this great nation could not overstep State lines to match. peared from sight.

There seems to be no longer any reason t loubt that Hogan is dead. Pilot Phelan was seen at the offices of the pilot commisioners this afternoon. He said: "At 5:30 State lines to remedy wrong was infamous and absurd. Further Mr. Foster held that clock on the afternoon of Tuesday last, when we were about 150 miles south-south were it proposed to "expedite" Flemon to any other State than South Carolina, the east of Sandy Hook, running before a stiff 25-mile north-northeast breeze, the lookent aloft sighted two schooners and a peculiar matter might be received with some degree of equanimity, but to South Carolina, never looking object lying near them on the sur-At this point some one threw a point of order under Mr. Foster's feet, and it exploded like a giant cracker. The point was that the meeting was called to raise money and not to expound constitutional law. The Chair ruled the point well taken. Mr. Foster denounced muzzling and having gotten clear of the breakers kept on, assuring his hearers that thugs should not drag a Pennsylvanian into the jaws of death. At this juncture the Chair again jumped on Mr. Foster and he was persuaded to sit down, but he hissed through his teeth that if injustice were done it would be righted in the battle of ballots.

Mr. B. F. Stewart said he didn't know that there was a colored man in Allegheny face of the ocean. One of the two schooners was to leeward of the object, which the lookout took to be a square-rigger, and was earing northward. The second schooner was in danger in the balloon, we crowded on extra sail and fairly flew over the water toward it.

"At about 7 o'clock, one hour and a half after we had first sighted the balloon, when we were about 100 yards from it, the balloon parted from some heavy object in the water, which it had been dragging along, and flew up into the sir. When several hundred feet above the surface of the sea, it was caught in the north-northwest wind and went before it east-southeast at the rate of about 25 miles an hour. When we first sighted the balloon and drew close enough to make her out, she was egg-shape and tugging very hard at what must have been the car. About five ropes held her to the car, which was buried several feet under water. The balloon was assuming all kinds of shapes, inflating and collapsing. At the last try, it collapsed at the end, and, assuming the shape of a pumpkin, arose in the air. There was nothing hanging to the ropes of the balloon.

"If Prof. Hogan was in the balloon when we came up with her, then he was drowned. Assistance could not have been rendered to him by the schooner I spoke of as being to leeward and bound northward. It is not at all improbable the schooner bound east-southeast may have something to say when she arrives at her destination. We cruised over the spot in which the balloon and its car parted. There were county who knew what the law in the case was; then why attempt to discuss it? "Get money; get lawyers to discuss it, men whose business it is to know. Lawyers may be sympathetic and all that, but they don't work without money. The trial may cost $100 and it may cost $1,000. Don't blow out the best of your brains discussing constitutional law, but get dollars."

Mr. Stewart's ideas prevailed, and he suggested the appointment of a respectable and responsible committee of five leading colored citizens to collect money and keep collecting as long as it was needed. Mr. Stewart couldn't see the object of so much waste of motive power in depending on holding meetings to accomplish it.

NO SIGNS OF LIFE.

Some man was angry that the trensurer of the $28 28 fund had put it into the bank, and wanted it produced, but the meeting sustained the treasurer, Mr. Daniel Washington. He explained that the actual cash received amounted to $24 53 instead of $28 28, as it appeared on paper. Since then, however, $37 88 more had been subscribed.

At this juncture a gentleman named Smith announced that he had been doing some collecting on his own hook, and he dumped $15 50 on the table as the result of his work. A vote of thanks was given Mr. Smith, accompanied by the freedom of the city. No evidence that a human being had found his death in the water. There were no floating objects. Everything was as quiet and calm as a mill pond. At the ime a heavy haze prevailed, though the time a heavy haze prevailed, though the sky was clear."

Hogan was 46 years old and made over 400 successful balloon ascensions and 32 parachute jumps in the 28 years he has followed the dangerous business. He was regarded as the foremost aeronaut in the world. Some of his friends are still hoping that he may be alive, even if injured, and landed in some out of the way place. He had a contract to appear in Ottawa, Canada, to-morrow, to make a jump, and they regard his absence as a sure sign that some serious mishap has befallen him, or otherwise they say he would surely appear to perform his contract if he had to crawl on his hands and knees to do so.

A dispatch from Providence says: At about 7 o'clock Tuesday evening a big balloon passed over this city heading in a direction that would have brought it up over Buzzards Bay or Vineyard Sound in an hour or two. A great many people here

A SENSATION FOR A DAY.

Rumors About Archbishop Corrigan and Dr. McGlynn That Aren't True.

ISPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. NEW YORK, July 18 .- It was reported in a morning newspaper to-day, that Arch-bishop Corrigan had been summoned to Rome by Pope Leo, to appear before the Sacred College of the Propaganda and de-fend the administration of his stewardship, and it was furthermore reported that Dr. McGlynn will also go to Rome to re-open his case, explain his economical views, and show how they are not incompatible with the spirit of the teachings of the Catholic Church. This ingenious report further alleged that priests who were visiting the city had shunned Archbishop Corrigan in-tentionally, to indicate their disapproval of the Archbishop's policy, not only in the McGlyan case, but in other cases.

Vicar General Preston was seen to-day by a DISPATCH reporter, at the St. Ann's Church rectory in Twelfth street. He read the article and said: "This is a pack of lies Archbishop Corrigan has not been lies. Archbishop Corrigan has not been summoned to Rome by the Pope, and he has. I know, no intention of visiting Rome. The article, without doubt, was inspired by one of the so-called Anti-Poverty Society members, and can only have been printed for the sake of a sensation. There is in no sense any foundation for it."
